

WRITING AS FRACTAL GEOMETRY

No matter how much I zoom into a portion of a writing, it reveals a replica of the original piece and the amount of details I wish to express never diminishes. I can just keep zooming in...The question now is: When and how do I stop writing? The same applies to knowledge.